2021 EARTH DAY PROGRAM

Restore Our Common Home

IN-PERSON PARTICIPANT PROGRAM
2021 Earth Day Program

In-Person Participant Program (PRINTED VERSION)

WELCOME

Silent Reading: “When life around the globe returns to normal, our world cannot return to business-as-usual. Our global community has been shocked by the largest global crisis in a generation. COVID-19 has shown us the necessity of thinking ahead, but the next crises are already on their way. Climate change, species loss, pandemics and massive natural disasters might define the future — unless we do something now. We have the solutions, both natural and technological… we just need the will.” (EarthDay.org)

OPENING PRAYER (1 MINUTE)

One: God of all creation, your goodness and glory shine forth through everything you have made. Through the light of faith, help us to see this world, our common home, not as a resource to dominate and exploit, but as a gift to be cherished by all generations.
All: Open our eyes, Lord

One: God of all, you made the earth and saw that it was good, but we have yet to properly care for it and give you thanks for the gifts you have given us through it.
All: Open our eyes, Lord.

One: Now the earth cries out and your people hunger and thirst.
All: Open our eyes, Lord.

One: Open our eyes to see the beauty of your creation, the pain we have inflicted upon it, and move us with compassion to help heal and restore your world.
All: Open our eyes, Lord.

One: Lead us to act as neighbors, who do not pass by on the other side, but rather walk side by side, as sisters and brothers in Christ.
All: Open our eyes, Lord.

One: So that together we may care for all that you have made and with all creation sing your praise.
All: Open our eyes, Lord.

ALL: Prompted by your Spirit, we ask this in the name of Jesus, through whom all creation was made.

READINGS (10 MINUTES)

Reading #1 | Psalm 8:1-10

For the leader; “upon the gittith.”- A psalm of David.
LORD, our Lord,
how awesome is your name through all the earth!
I will sing of your majesty above the heavens
with the mouths of babes and infants.
You have established a bulwark against your foes,
to silence enemy and avenger.
When I see your heavens, the work of your fingers,
the moon and stars that you set in place—
What is man that you are mindful of him, and a son of man that you care for him? Yet you have made him little less than a god, crowned him with glory and honor.
You have given him rule over the works of your hands,
put all things at his feet:
All sheep and oxen,
even the beasts of the field,
The birds of the air, the fish of the sea,
and whatever swims the paths of the seas.
LORD, our Lord,
how awesome is your name through all the earth!

Reading #2

Ecological conversion is to return to God; it is to return to dust and ashes, as creatures in fraternal communion with the wonders and terrifying powers of creation. For some people, ecological conversion may be as simple as accepting the reality of climate change, and beginning to shift behaviors accordingly.
It could mean an awakening to the reality that nature bears the touch of God, and is therefore deserving of reverence. It might lead to giving up meat, or eating far less of it, or at least being more conscious of how it is produced.

Of course, it could mean a lot more. Under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, ecological conversion is what has the potential to create a holistic political economy, in which we no longer idolize profits or consumer ease. Imagine a new and yet ancient arrangement of economics — neither capitalist nor socialist — in which citizens become caretakers in ways that are profoundly attuned to the integrity of creation, and the well-being of all people. ~Doug DeMeo, Discovering ecological conversion in the spirit of Laudato Si’

Reading #3

This conversion calls for a number of attitudes which together foster a spirit of generous care, full of tenderness. First, it entails gratitude and gratuitousness, a recognition that the world is God’s loving gift, and that we are called quietly to imitate his generosity in self-sacrifice and good works: “Do not let your left hand know what your right hand is doing… and your Father who sees in secret will reward you” (Mt 6:3-4). It also entails a loving awareness that we are not disconnected from the rest of creatures, but joined in a splendid universal communion. As believers, we do not look at the world from without but from within, conscious of the bonds with which the Father has linked us to all beings. By developing our individual, God-given capacities, an ecological conversion can inspire us to greater creativity and enthusiasm in resolving the world’s problems and in offering ourselves to God “as a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable” (Rom 12:1). We do not understand our superiority as a reason for personal glory or irresponsible dominion, but rather as a different capacity which, in its turn, entails a serious responsibility stemming from our faith. (Laudato Si’ 220)
Reading #4 | A Call to Reflection and Action

Grateful for the gift of creation and contrite in the face of the deteriorating condition of the natural world, we invite Catholics and men and women of good will in every walk of life to consider with us the moral issues raised by the environmental crisis.

We ask the Catholic community: How are we called to care for God’s creation? How may we apply our social teaching, with its emphasis on the life and dignity of the human person, to the challenge of protecting the earth, our common home? What can we in the Catholic community offer to the environmental movement, and what can we learn from it? How can we encourage a serious dialogue in the Catholic community—in our parishes, schools, colleges, universities, and other settings—on the significant ethical dimensions of the environmental crisis?

GROUP DISCUSSION (15 MINUTES)

1. What does “restore our common home” mean to you? Are there certain words that you associate with “restore” and “restoration”? Take a couple of minutes and write the words on a piece of paper. If meeting as a group, share these words with others.
2. What message does Psalm 8 have for us at the present moment?
3. Thirty years ago, the U.S. Bishops asked the Catholic community questions about our work to care for God’s creation. How do you respond in 2021 to this 1991 pastoral statement?
4. How is our work to restore our common home a part of our call for the “ecological conversion” that Pope Francis calls for in Laudato Si’? How is it part of our “spiritual conversion”?
5. Have you, your family, your community responded to the call for ecological conversion? List ways you have responded on a piece of paper. List ways you can respond in the future.

SUGGESTED ACTIVITY (15 MINUTES)

Restore Our Common Home Activity (links available in online edition)

Tree planting.
Have you planted (or plan to plant) trees? Have you bought trees to be planted elsewhere?
For information on tree planting:
• Arbor Day Foundation and National Wildlife Federation have free tree seedlings saplings programs
• Check with your State Forester for more information and grants or here for state by state information.
• Liturgical resources suitable for tree blessings from Catholic Rural Life.
• Donate to TIST- the International Small Group and Tree Planting Program. Every $1 donation equals 1 tree planted.
• Example: St. Francis Xavier Parish, Hunt Valley, MD
CONCLUSION AND CLOSING PRAYER

Script: Congratulations! You have all done a very good job. Please remember that a great place to learn more about the Catholic church’s teachings on creation and the poor is Catholic Climate Covenant’s website (http://www.catholicclimatecovenant.org). I’d like to thank everyone for coming and being such wonderful participants in this Earth Day program. We will now close with a short prayer.

Closing Prayer (1 MINUTE)

Prayer for Our World (in unison)

Creator God, who made our beautiful world, appointed us as its guardians and gifted us with everything we need, forgive us for the times we cause it harm; for the times our way of life affects our neighbors. Inspire us to care for the environment; to help rebuild lives and communities; to share in the griefs and anxieties, joys and hopes of all your people, so that all your creation may flourish.

Amen.
